REVALUING OF LAND IN SETTLEMENT IS PLANNED

Measure To Be Proposed At Coming Meeting Of Ratepayers

OUTLINE AGENDA

Council Answers Attack On Printing Bye-Law It Wants Passed

Additional administrative measures, one contemplating reassessment of property in the International Settlement, and others to be proposed through the Ratepayers Association at the annual ratepayers' meeting next Wednesday are published in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette. In addition to these resolutions the Council issues a statement setting forth its position regarding the proposed bye-law for the registration of printers and publishers concerning which a storm of opposition has been raised.

With the exception of the resolution providing for reassessment of land the new administrative measures are of routine character, providing for adoption of the annual report and accounts, the adoption of the budget, election of a Land Commissioner, four Governors of the General Hospital and two members of the Education Committee.

LAND RESOLUTION

The resolution providing for reassessment of land is as follows:

"Resolution VI.—That the Council be and it is hereby authorised and directed to arrange for the reassessment of the land comprised within the limits of the Settlement, during the current year, such reassessment to come into force as from the first day of January, 1923, and to engage such professional assistance for the performance of the work as may be found expedient."

The resolutions to be brought forward by the Ratepayers Association are those recently published, one providing that meetings of the Municipal Council shall be open to representatives of the press, another that reading of municipal reports at ratepayers' meetings be discontinued and a third providing that the Council adopt measures to deal with traffic congestion.

STATES POSITION

In its statement concerning the proposed bye-law for the registration of printers and publishers the Council reviews all the steps taken to bring into effect legislation of this character since 1919 when a bye-law to license printing establishments was proposed, adopted but failed to meet the support of the Consular body.

The Council sets forth that since then the aim has been to devise a measure that will meet with the approval of the Consular body with the end that an administrative check may be placed upon miscellaneous printed matter—particularly "scurrilous and seditious pamphlets."

The statement refers to the fact that since the new measure was made public a blast of propaganda against it has developed and this the statement characterises as misleading.

DEFINES BYE-LAW

In the statement the purposes of the measure are set forth as follows:

"Printers and publishers shall register with their Consul, if they have one, or with the Council if they have not.

"Having registered, printers must print their names and places of business on their publications.

"Nobody must publish or disperse any printed matter which does not bear the name and place of business of the printer.

"Registration will not have to be repeated, although changes of addresses, and in the case of a printing company, changes in the directorate will have to be notified. There is absolutely no question of the registration of printed matter itself, as is customary in so many other countries.

"The measure is not a harsh one, in fact it is incomparably more lenient in its conditions than is the case in many other countries, and, in its operation, it will be free from those complications which the anti-propagandists have prophesied. The responsible press has nothing to fear. There is no question of limiting freedom of speech or any wish on the Council's part to curb criticism of its conduct of Municipal affairs. On the contrary criticism that is of a constructive character is always appreciated and action taken thereon whenever it seems desirable and is possible."

CRIMINAL DECEIT CHARGE HURLED AT U.S. WAR HEAD

Johnson, Member Of Congress, Bitter In Attack

(China Press Service)

Washington, April 11.—Representative Johnson of South Dakota, a veteran of the world war, today charged that the War Department has sold, and is continuing to sell, war properties at a ridiculously low and criminal price to favored customers, and concealing the real facts from Congress.

Secretary of War Weeks' report of last December was the most misleading and deliberately and criminally deceitful document that had ever been submitted to Congress, Mr. Johnson declared.

Mr. Johnson further charged that in order to conceal such practices the War Department was "trying to control the Department of Justice by permitting men who ought to be in jail to remain on the department's payroll and asking Congress to appropriate for it."

BODY OF MISSING CLERK IS FOUND IN THE WHANGPOO

Verdict Of Drowning Returned In Case Of Spanish Subject

The finding of a body floating in the Whangpoo near the Standard Oil Pootung wharf has solved the mystery created by the disappearance nearly two weeks ago of Fernandez Anido, a Spanish subject who had been employed at the Central Garage.

The body was found Monday by the River Police and was identified at the inquest which was held yesterday before Mr. V. Vizenzinovich, Chancellor of the Spanish Consulate-General.

Anido had been in Shanghai about four months, coming here from America. He took lodgings at a boarding house at 35 East Broadway, paying for his board in advance. He had only worked for the Garage Company for three days previous to his disappearance and had incurred no indebtedness known of. No marks of violence were to be found on the body and the verdict was to the effect that death was by drowning. The Spanish Consulate is making arrangements for the burial.

Chita Army Takes Two More Villages

Peking, April 12.—The communique of the People's Revolutionary Army Headquarters states:

Vladivostok, April 12.—The Japanese have driven the Reds out of the neutral zone up to Shmakovka and are approaching Stagon and the Nssuri. The Vladivostok Government troops have occupied Olga.

Bolshevik agents are posting provocative anti-Semitic proclamations here worded as though coming from the Right circles, with the object of discrediting the Government which has consistently treated the Jews with unbiassed equality and fairness.

The conflict with the Japanese was deliberately provoked by the Reds who, hoping to profit by the political dissension in Japan on the subject of intervention in Siberia, had, it is alleged, definite hostile plans against the Japanese troops and expected thus to expedite the evacuation of Siberia.

Crowds, Troops, Music, Peals Of Welcome Greet Prince Of Wales In Japan's Capital

Royal British Visitor Acclaimed By Thousands—Press And Public Applaud Guest As Exemplifier Of Two Nations' Great Friendship

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, April 12.—His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, arrived in Tokio at 10.43 a.m., where he was met at the station by the Prince Regent and other Princes of the Blood.

After leaving the Princes, his Royal Highness inspected the guard of honor, while bands played the National Anthem. The party then proceeded to the Imperial Palace, the Prince of Wales, Prince Higash'-Fushimi and the Prince Regent occupying the same carriage which was preceded and followed by a guard of lancers. Then followed the members of the Prince's suite and Japanese authorities, in the following order:

1. Count Chinda, Vice-Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey.
2. Brigadier-General C. Woodroffe, Sir George Thomas and Japanese officials.
3. Capt. the Hon. Piers Legh, Lieut. the Hon. Bruce Ogilvy and Rear-Admiral Yamanashi.
4. Captain Dudley North, R. N., Captain E. D. Metcalfe and Captain Yamamoto.
5. Lieut. Lord Louis of Mountbattan, R. N. and Surgeon Commander A. C. Newport, R. N.

Crossing the Nijubashi Bridge into the Palace grounds, the party was received in the Phoenix Hall, after which, the Prince, accompanied by Prince Higashi-Fushimi proceeded to Akasaka Palace, where he will have lunch.

Tokio, April 12.—After luncheon, the Prince of Wales received the Regent at the entrance of Akasaka Palace. His Royal Highness was dressed in mufti.

CALLS ON ROYALTY

The Prince then called on the members of the Imperial Family and afterwards received members of the Diplomatic Corps, officials and Cabinet Ministers.

At 6.20 p.m. His Royal Highness proceeded to the Imperial Palace for dinner, which was served in the Homei Hall and was attended by the members of the Imperial Family. The Prince took in the Empress and the Regent the Princess Kanin. The Regent proposed a toast welcoming the Prince of Wales, who replied.

When dinner was over, a reception was held in the Botan Hall, where the Ambassadors and Ministers with their wives were given an audience.

After supper, His Royal Highness returned to Akasaka.

Yokohama, April 12.—From every available vantage place along the water front, eager and expectant thousands patiently awaited the arrival around the "Point" of the cruiser Renown and the escort of naval vessels showing the way to the land of the Rising Sun.

Buildings fronting on the bay were riots of color, with streamers of bunting and interwoven Japanese flags and British Union Jacks. From the mast heads of the ocean liners, freighters and sailing vessels in the harbor floated long streamers of pennants and even the coolie in the sampan plying inside the breakwater extended himself for the occasion and decorated his little craft in honor of the event.

"THE SHIPS ARE COMING"

Then far out on the horizon the more keen eyed of the vast multitude saw specks of smoke and in a few minutes it was evident that the long expected arrival was about to become an actuality. Moving in stately column formation, the escorts and the escorted ate up the distance remaining between them and the land. Overhead, British and Japanese aviators circled and maneuvered in their seaplanes.

The aerial welcome to His Royal Highness was largely in the hands of the British Aviation Mission, in charge of Captain the Master of Sempill and attached to the Imperial Japanese Navy for equipping, organising and training the I. J. N. Air Service. The first escort of H. M. S. Renown consisted of a formation of F5 boats under Commander Brackley, and opposite Yokosuka it was joined by a formation of "Sparrowhawks" and "Panthers", under Lieutenant-Commander Smith.

As soon as the Renown took up her moorings, the F5 formation returned to its base, and the "Sparrowhawk-Panther" formation broke up and various acrobatic exhibitions were given by individual machines over the harbor.

The Japanese Light Cruiser Division met the Renown and escorted it to Yokohama. In Tokio Bay the battleships, Mutsu, Nagato and Fuso, of the First Division, and the Kongo, Hiyei and Kirishima of the Second Division, joined the escort, and together with the British vessels presented an imposing spectacle as they moved up the bay.

As the vessels entered the harbor there was a roar of guns and a shrieking of sirens. From the crowds on the shores rose "Banzai" after "Banzai", and thousands of Union Jacks and Japanese flags were waved in frantic welcome to the British Prince.

EVERYBODY THERE

Every class of society was represented. On the wharves were the bedecked and highly decorated representatives of the nobility and the best blood of Japan. In the vast crowd was

Japanese Catapulted Into Shantung, Cat's Pawing Out

By Elsie McCormick

Tsinanfu, April 10.—Japan may have come into Shantung like a lion, but she is going out like the wooliest of little lambs. Such at least is the impression that a visitor garners after observing the preparations for departure now going on in Tsinanfu. The courtyard of the Japanese barracks is heaped high with corded and crated luggage, the great wireless is sealed and under Chinese guard, and the soldiers are innocently engaged in making farewell sight-seeing pilgrimages. A trip made by four hundred Japanese to the top of Taishan the other day had all the earmarks of a goodbye party. Reports come from Weihsien of soldiers who visited the city and bought up the entire supply of lacquered canes as souvenirs of Shantung.

According to agreement between the two nations, the evacuation is to take place in three shifts. The date of the actual moving, however, seems as difficult to calculate as the Russian Easter. When three such authorities as Dr. C. T. Wang, the Japanese Consul and the secretary to the Governor of Shantung all gave us conflicting dates what chance has a poor journalist to hazard a guess? The first evacuation, which may or may not take place on the thirteenth, is to extend from Tsinanfu to Changtien; the second, which will probably begin April twentieth, will include the course of the railroad as far as Huang Chi Pao, and the third, to be more or less completed by May second, will extend to Nyu Ku Kou, just a short distance outside the limits of Tsingtau. The present withdrawal of Japanese forces does not include stationmasters, conductors, engineers, ticket-takers; it comprises only the soldiery sent into Shantung to protect the railroad. The other positions will not be vacated until the purchase is complete.

GUARDS ARRIVE

During our stay in Tsinanfu a trainload of three hundred picked gendarmes from Peking arrived to take the place of the departing Nipponese. Smartly uniformed, well-equipped, and marching with a military snap learned under the tutelage of a Norwegian general, the gendarmes form a decided contrast to the lolling, carelessly belted, and round-shouldered objects that seem to make up most of the Chinese army. Three hundred more are due to arrive in a few days.

Estimates of the number of Japanese soldiers in Shantung vary from 1,200 to 2,500. Thus even at the most conservative estimate the Chinese are endeavoring to get on with only half the guards employed by their recent visitors. Many of the foreigners in Tsinan are predicting trouble for them, both with the well-organised groups of bandits and with some of the Shantung soldiers who resent the fact that men from Peking are preferred to the local talent. Chinese authorities admit the gravity of the bandit situation, but deny that clashes are imminent between the Northern gendarmes and the heroes of Shantung, even though the latter are so fierce that they eat sunflower seeds almost whole.

We were assured by the secretary of the provincial governor that the turning over of the guard will not be the occasion for a public ceremony. There is a certain amount of discreet joy evidenced in the display of flags throughout the city, but according to the canons of Chinese official politeness, anything like a festive holiday would savor too much of 'rubbing it in.'

MUST ASK CEREMONY

"If the Japanese request a ceremony, we will have one," the secretary said, "otherwise the turning over will not be accompanied by demonstrations of any kind." Thus far the Japanese have put in no demands for a public occasion to mark their exit. There is every indication that the obsequies will be private, with no flowers.

The problem that seems to be causing demands for nerve tonic among the Chinese is the probable size of the bill. According to agreement already reached, the price of the railroad is to be 54,000,000 gold marks. This figure, however, is based on the value of the road when it was taken over by the Germans and does not include improvements added by the Japanese. These improvements threaten to be the Ethiopian among the kindling.

Rumors were abroad that the Japanese demands might amount to several hundred millions of dollars, and that there would be no way for China to satisfy Japan except by taking a loan from the Nipponese capitalists with the operation of the railroad as security. This story was categorically denied by the Japanese Legation, but public apprehension continues. It has certainly not been lessened by travelers' tales that the Japanese are busy daubing new paint over many of the stations on the line and that they are hastily setting up elaborate signs. Every little improvement has a dollar mark all its own.

"Not having received the Japanese bill, I can make no comment on its possible size," Dr. C. T. Wang told us. "However, I can safely say that every item will be carefully scrutinised and, if necessary, the opinion of disinterested experts will be requested. A line will be drawn betwen repairs necessary to keep the railroad up to its original standard and between bona fide improvements. Repairs are not to be included in the bill."

STUDENTS ACTIVE

Meanwhile the students of Shantung Christian University have begun a quixotic movement to raise funds by public subscription for the purchase of the railroad. They have held an open meeting or two,

SOVIET WILL RECOGNISE DEBTS OF OLD GOVERNMENT

Unable To Discharge Them Now, However

NEW CODE DRAWN

Guarantees For Foreign Capital To Be Given

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 12.—A despatch from Genoa states that the outline of the Russian Delegation's reconstruction scheme has been published. Russia will recognise the debts of the old regime but as she is unable to pay, the Russian Delegation considers that a moratorium will be necessary. A new juridical code will be presented to the Conference providing guarantees for foreign capital, property and rights in Russia, who, while adhering to State ownership, will grant concessions for mines, factories and agriculture. Special tribunals will deal with disputes between Russians and foreigners. The States will retain the monopoly for fuels and raw materials. The plan also provides for disarmament provided that the neighboring and other States reciprocate.

Genoa, April 11.—Lord Birkenhead is expected to replace Lord Curzon at the Economic Conference, as the latter is still indisposed and unable to leave England.

There are five commissions sitting today each composed of forty-two members.

ECONOMIC ISSUES

The most important of these is number one and will be presided over by Signor Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, and will deal with all questions not of financial or economic interest. It has the task of practically applying the Cannes resolutions and of considering the establishment of peace in Europe as a preliminary to holding a disarmament conference, consequently, Russia bulks to the greatest extent in these discussions.

Mr. Lloyd George and Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme are the British members of this commission and it is understood Britain will submit a definite scheme regarding Russia.

M. Chicherin, the Soviet Commissary for Foreign Affairs, was responsible for a lively period at the meeting of the principal commission, so-called number one, dealing with the establishment of peace in Europe, by warmly joining issue with M. Barthou, regarding the number of delegates of each country represented on the commission. M. Chicherin retorted.

"I do not care about the other powers wanting one, I want two."

Later the Russians protested against the presence of Rumania because she occupied Bessarabia and against Japan because she occupied a portion of Siberia.

M. Bratiano replied that Bessarabia had merely rejoined her motherland, while Viscount Ishii provoked laughter by replying:

ISHII'S POSITION

"Japan is here and intends to stay here, whether M. Chicherin likes it or not."

Signor Facta's tact restored harmony and the Russian objections were subsequently ruled out.

The Dominions at first were not put on the list for voting on commissions, but Sir Joseph Cook (Australia) and Sir Edgar Walton (South Africa) strongly protested and insisted on the right to vote, which was eventually conceded.

Genoa, April 12.—The Conference Finance Commission has adopted the proposals of Sir Robert Horne, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, to proceed on the basis of the results of the work carried out at the recent meeting of the Allied experts in London and also to appoint a sub-committee to examine the problems and to propose solutions.

This sub-committee will consist of representatives of the five convening Powers and Germany, Russia, Holland, Czecho-Slovakia, Denmark and Sweden.

(Delta News Agency)

Tokio, April 5.—Commenting on the Genoa conference, the Kokumin says:

"However important for Japan is the question of resuming relations with Russia, it is very difficult to recognise the Soviet authorities; but in case Britain recognises them, Japan is going to follow her example."

Prostitution Increases As Licences Dwindle, Council Tells Morality Committee

Concerning the scheme that is being carried out to eliminate disorderly houses from the International Settlement two interesting communications, one from the Moral Welfare League and the reply from the Council, are published in today's Municipal Gazette.

Through its honorary secretary, the Rev. Frank Rawlinson, the Moral Welfare League refers to a recent statement of the Council which was to the effect that while licensed brothels are being reduced in numbers "prostitution and its attendant evils have in no way decreased but have merely spread over a much wider area with the consequent impossibility of any effective police control."

The Council answering three questions clearly admits that the police are unable to prevent prostitution and the exact powers to control prostitution are set forth.

THREE QUESTIONS

The letter from the Rev. Mr. Rawlinson is as follows:

"Sir.—In the report of the Shanghai Municipal Council reference is made to brothels, in which occurs this statement: 'This net result has been that while 218 brothels have been closed officially, prostitution and its attendant evils have in no way decreased, but have merely spread over a much wider area with the consequent impossibility of any effective police control.' My Committee instructs me to ask:

"(1) Does this mean that brothels officially closed open up elsewhere in the International Settlement and continue unchecked?

"(2) Does it mean that the police feel themselves unable to cope with the situation in the International Settlement?

"(3) Just what is meant by effective 'police control' over brothels?

"We ask these questions with a view to understanding a little better the situation, and in addition we beg to request to be informed if you can help us in any way."

THE REPLY

Following is the reply of the Council:

"In reply to your queries, I am directed to inform you that police reports show that while brothels officially closed, remain closed, it is nevertheless a fact that the former occupants, having no other means of earning a living, continue a life of prostitution in private houses, where they are in no sense subject to police control.

"With regard to your inquiry as to whether the Police feel themselves 'unable to cope with the situation,' it is not at all clear what is meant by this expression: if thereby you desire to inquire whether the Police are unable to prevent prostitution, the reply is in the affirmative, since prostitution is not an offence under the national laws having jurisdiction over the concerned; if however your meaning is to inquire whether the Police are unable to carry out the duties imposed upon them by the ratepayers in effecting the gradual suppression of licensed brothels, the reply is that these duties have been, and are being carried out.

"As to your inquiry as to what is meant by 'effective Police control of a brothel,' I have to inform you that such consists of ability to enforce licence conditions and that alone. The fewer the licences, therefore, the less control there must be of prostitution and its attendant evils.

"In the meantime the instructions of the ratepayers will continue to be followed out, unless countermanded, under which all licences are to be withdrawn within a period of five years from the date of the original resolution.

"With respect to the concluding inquiry contained in your letter, I may assure you to my cordial sympathy with your objects and inform you that I am at all times ready to further any projects which you or the Moral Welfare Committee may put forward, provided always that they have received the Council's sanction and approval."

CONFIRM BOAST OF BOMB ATTACK MADE BY KOREAN

The boast made following his capture by Kin Eak-song, one of the two Koreans who attempted to assassinate Baron Tanaka and killed Mrs. W. J. Snyder at the Customs jetty on March 28, to the effect that it was he who threw three bombs at the Governor-General's palace in Seoul last has been confirmed as true, according to Japanese reports here.

The reports received from Korea state that Kim's home in Seoul has been searched by the police and that evidences have been found tending to show that the Korean was concerned in the attempt made to end the Governor-General's life. The bombs thrown wrecked part of the palace. It is reported that Kim's wife has been taken into custody by the Seoul police.

Crowds Acclaim Prince In Japan

practically the whole British community, many of whom had during the struggle of 1914-18, worn the same uniform as the arriving guest.

The scenes were specially brilliant and the aircraft display magnificent. As soon as the Renown tied up, various personages, including Prince Higashi-Fushimi and the members of the Reception Committee, Sir Charles Eliot and the members of the Embassy staff, the Governor of Kanagawa and the Mayor of Yokohama, went on board to greet the Prince. Amid the thunderous salutes of the assembled warships and the cheers of the multitudes ashore the Prince, on leaving the Renown, was received by the Reception Committee and the full British Embassy and Consular staffs who were all introduced to His Royal Highness.

Accompanied by Prince Higashi-Fushimi the Prince proceeded along the wharf which was lined with guards of honor, Yokohama officials and British and other foreign residents, among whom Scouts and Guides were prominent. After a brief halt, while the band played the British National Anthem, His Royal Highness inspected the guards and then received the leading British and Indian residents, with whom he cordially conversed.

Addresses were read by Mr. L. Pollard, the Chairman of the British Association, and Mr. Marzza representing the British Indians and bouquets were then presented by Misses Holmes and Inouye, the daughters of the British Consul-General and theGovernor of Kanazawa, respectively.

On proceeding to the train the Prince was rousingly cheered by thousands of children and others, carrying the flags of the two nations and lining the track as far as the limits of Yokohama.

Nagasaki, April 12.—H. M. S. Renown entered Yokohama harbor at 7.50 o'clock this morning in brilliant weather.

Peking, April 11.—In reply to the Prince of Wales' message from Hongkong, the following was telegraphed from Peking:

"The Old Comrades Association thank you for your message of good will and respectfully offer all good wishes to Your Royal Highness."

Shanghai Medical Men Hold Annual Meeting

The annual general meeting of the Shanghai Medical Society was held at the Shanghai General Hospital on Friday, March 31, 1922. Dr. Fresson, acting president, was in the chair and there were twenty members present.

The honorary secretary in his report stated that since the first annual general meeting on April 11, 1921, when the Society was inaugurated and the constitution and byelaws approved, the membership of the society had rapidly risen from 22 to 77, which was highly satisfactory for the short period of eleven months.

The present figure of 77 members consisted of 74 resident and 3 associate members. Of the total figure, 28 were Americans, of whom 8 were women; 21 were British; 3 French; 1 Belgian; 18 Chinese, of whom 3 were women, and 6 Japanese.

Meetings:—During the year there were eight regular monthly meetings, at which papers were read and discussed by members on such varied subjects, as "Red-Cross Work in Siberia" (Dr. A. W. Tucker); "Methods of Health Education" (Dr. W. W. Peter); "Sprue" (Dr. H. Fesson); "Smallpox" (Dr. Noel Davis); "Amoebic Dysentery" (Dr. W. B. Billinghurst).

On December 11, 1921, Dr. Morton of San Francisco gave a lecture on "Spinal Analgesia." On January 12, 1922, at a joint meeting of the Shanghai Medical Society, The National Medical Society and the Medical Missionary Society, some very interesting clinical cases were shown by members of the three Societies, and an extremely profitable discussion followed in which many took part.

GOOD ATTENDANCE

During all these meetings, at which there was an average attendance of 22 members, and 3 visiting physicians, it was noticeable that a gradually increasing interest was being developed in the business and objects of the Society, which was shown chiefly by punctual attendance, a friendly spirit of co-operation, and a keen general desire to take part in the discussions.

Early in the session, the President, Dr. Ransom, had to leave Shanghai for a much needed holiday and his place was ably filled by Dr. H. Fresson, as acting President.

Apart from the purely medical side of the work dealt with at the regular monthly meetings, the Society, through its Council of seven members, did a large amount of important and useful executive work during the year; e.g., attending to an increasing volume of correspondence on various questions relating to medical and health matters; arranging papers, and clinical cases etc., for subsequent meetings; electing new members, etc., etc.

It was abundantly clear that the Society, at present only in its infancy, had already more than justified its existence and gave every promise not only of becoming a strong and vigorous corporation, but of making itself felt as a real, active, and vital force in the Community, in all matters connected in any way with the medical profession and with health matters generally.

CHIEF OBJECT

One of the chief objects of the Society was to maintain a high standard of medical ethics and of professional conduct; to create and encourage a spirit of friendliness and helpfulness amongst its members; and to increase its sphere of usefulness—individually and collectively—amongst the Community at large. With such an object in view the success of the Society was already assured.

The accounts of the Society, duly audited by two of its members, were presented at the meeting, and showed a satisfactory credit balance notwithstanding the somewhat heavy expenses which had to be incurred during the early months of the Society's existence. During the meeting, the following officers and Councillors were elected for the year 1922-1923: President, Dr. H. Fresson; Vice-president, Dr. W. B Billinghurst; Secretary Treasury, Dr. H. Lovett Cumming; Councillors, Dr. F. M. Neild, Dr. H H. Morris, Dr. J. B. Fearn, Dr. W. S. New.

HOW TO "GROW" A NEW COMPLEXION

These are the days of "muscles." In a week we see and do more than our grandmothers did in a year. We are gradually turning nature to be our servant; we use her great forces against herself. We have conquered sea and sky, now our doctors are fighting not only disease, but old age. There is talk of rejuvenating human beings by the injection of animal glands, but as yet, only the few can avail themselves of the treatment.

There is, however, one secret of perpetual youth that is in the reach of everyone. Scientists now realise that the only way of keeping the skin young and fresh is to examine Nature's methods and to find some way of imitating her.

SCIENTIFIC BEAUTY.

In order to explain the new method of keeping the complexion perpetually youthful, one must understand something of the nature of the skin. A baby's skin is always clear and smooth because the outer layer is always invisibly peeling off, and new layers are forming just as fast underneath, so that the exposed skin is always fresh, unwrinkled and "new."

For the first few years of our lives, this peeling is a purely natural process, but as we grow older, we gradually lose the power of throwing off our old soiled outer skins, so that our complexions become lined and yellow, and the new skin has no chance to show itself.

A few years ago, a scientific chemist realised that a little-known substance called mercolised wax, was exactly what was needed to "keep nature up to the mark." It appears that this substance, which is now unversally obtainable, gently and painlessly assists nature in throwing off the soiled outer cuticle. The skin is thus perpetually renewed, and a clear youthful complexion can be preserved to any age. (Advt.)

$5,000 DAMAGES ASKED IN ACTION AGAINST TRAM CO.

Pleadings were ordered by Judge Peter Grain of the British Supreme Court yesterday in a claim for $5,000 brought by Mrs. Ada Roggers against the Shanghai Electric Construction Company.

The claim is for damages alleged to have been suffered through negligence on the part of the tramway company on November 29, 1921, plaintiff alleging that when a car was started at the corner of Honan and Nanking Roads before she was able to alight she was thrown to the ground and sustained injuries to her head.

Mr. P. W. Goldring appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. R. E. S. Gregson for the defendants.

Roth Case Decision Acquits Defendant

Charges of having made threats to kill that were filed against Mrs. Helen Roth by her husband, Mr. L. F. Roth, at a hearing held in the court of U. S. Commissioner F. J. Schuhl about a month ago were dismissed by the Commissioner in a ruling filed yesterday.

On the subject of the Roth family snarl Commissioner Schuhl said he felt that inasmuch as a divorce action is pending and is to be heard in the United States Court for China the difficulties of the couple could best be dealt with by the higher tribunal.

Mr. Roth said last night that neither he nor his counsel, Judge Cornell Franklin, had been apprised that a decision had been given in the case.

POLICE ROUND UP GANG OF THIRTEEN ARMS SMUGGLERS

Nine Chinese To Be Tried In Mixed Court; Four Japanese Held

With the arrest of nine Chinese and four Japanese within the past two days, the local authorities believe that they have plugged at least one source of supply for the local traffic in smuggled firearms.

Four Chinese hawkers, taken into custody in the Wayside district, appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday, when they were charged, in conjunction with the five who were before the court on the day previous, with being concerned in the importation of 34 Mauser pistols and 400 rounds of ammunition for purposes of sale. They were remanded for trial on next Tuesday.

The four Japanese quartermasters of the steamer Mitor Maru who are charged with smuggling in pistols will be brought before the Japanese Consular court. They are said to have admitted arms sales here and one of them was found in possession of a number of Mauser pistols.

but the difficulties of acquiring several millions by passing the hat or holding amateur entertainments have already somewhat dampened their enthusiasm. Their patriotic intentions are good and the movement will undoubtedly focus more attention on Japan's little list of statistics, but unfortunately raising money for a national debt requires a different course of tactics than getting funds for a new dormitory, for instance, or for a local Y.M.C.A.

The capers of the bandits are likewise furnishing patriotic Chinese with bitter food for thought. Realising that the eyes of all the world will be turned on the Chinese administration of its new properties, thinking citizens of Shantung are extremely anxious that the railroad and its guards should acquire a reputation for efficiency. One hold-up by maurauding bandits, one daring attack upon freight sheds would be sufficient to prove to the satisfaction of the world that China is incompetent to manage her own affairs or to keep order within her boundaries. Whether China is to be treated in the future as an adult among the nations or as a child needing a legally-appointed guardian will depend very largely on her success in managing Tsingtau and the railroad. Thus the bandits of Shantung are more than a local nuisance, they are a national menace.

BANDITS BUSY

From the Southeastern part of the province and especially from the country around Tsingtau come reports of bandit activity far outclassing any previous achievements of the Shantung Robin Hoods. This region has become so unsafe that wealthy Chinese and their families are pouring into the city in large numbers. There was one case of a child, the heir of considerable money, who was kidnapped from his mother's arms in her own home but who died of fright before ransom could be realised. There was another case of a man captured by brigands and thrown down a coal shaft when pursuit was threatened. There was an instance of two students on their way from Ichowfu to Shantung Christian University, who were held for forty days before the outlaws decided that their board-bill threatened to become larger than their possible ransom. The crowning incident of all, however, was the kidnapping of a chief mourner out of a funeral procession in spite of the attendance of a local magistrate and several of his soldiers.

Bandit audaciousness has reached a point of unconcealed organisation under the name of the "Small Sword Society." The headquarters of the maurauders is said to be an island near Tsingtau, which, incidentally, is included within the limits of the Japanese jurisdiction.

WANG OPTIMISTIC

Despite the threatened difficulties for the new Chinese railroad guards, Dr. C. T. Wang of the Shantung Rehabilitation Commission is convinced that the province has a gilded future.

"The first thing we intend to do is to increase the revenue of the railroad by establishing a through traffic service to Tsingtau from both Pukow and Peking," Dr. Wang told us at his Tsinanfu headquarters. "At present, goods consigned to Tsingtau must be transhipped here and conveyed from one station to the other. This means a loss of time and money and a tremendous amount of general inconvenience. There are several bulky pieces of machinery rusting away in Tsinanfu today because no adequate means can be found for transporting them a few blocks across the city. With certain trains going direct to Tsingtau from both North and South, the revenue of the railroad is bound to show a very marked increase. The distance separating the stations of the two lines is great when the transshipment of goods is to be considered, but conveniently small from the viewpoint of joining them together. The proposed railroad from Tsinanfu to the Peking-Hankow line can also be linked up with the road to Tsingtau, thus opening direct communication with the whole Yangtsze valley.

"Before the Tsinanfu-Tsingtau railroad can be utilised to its full possibilities, there must be a campaign of advertisement in order to encourage traffic. Chinese shippers have boycotted the line for so long that it has become force of habit to send the celebrated Shantung silks and strawberries out by Chefoo and Tientsin. We shall begin our effort to popularise the road just as soon as it is turned over to us."

As for Tsingtau itself, Dr. Wang predicts that it will soon develop into a great port controlling practically all commercial activity from the Yellow River basin to the steppes of Mongolia.

"Being the only good ocean harbor in the possession of China, it will undoubtedly enjoy an exceedingly large trade," Dr. Wang said. "Its shipping facilities are much better than those of Shanghai, where the largest ships can go no farther than Woosung and the others must await a favorable tide. The harbor of Tsingtau is sufficiently deep for ships for any size, as was proved by the maneuvers of the Japanese fleet. When the boycott is removed, the revenues will become so large that a very efficient standard of government can be maintained."

DOCKS INQUIRY

In regard to the docks, Dr. Wang said the commission has a representative in Tsingtau to determine which were Geraman property and which built since by the Japanese. The former will pass automatically into Chinese hands; the latter must be purchased. Here again a fair valuation will be insisted upon. There will be no formal turning over of the zone on either side of the railroad, China never having recognised Japan's claim to this territory. The coal mines leased by the Germans will be returned on payment for Japanese improvements; mines belonging to Japanese individuals will be condemned and purchased according to the workings of Chinese mining law.

"We fully realise the responsibility of making Tsingtau a city of which we can be proud," Dr. Wang said. "The date for the turning over of the city is not yet set, though it will probably occur within six months. Every effort will be made to keep the city up to the highest standards it has known in the past."

It would be interesting to know just what kind of future Tsingtau is facing. Will the Chinese let its automobile roads deteriorate, its docks fall into disrepair and its streets bear the scars of the overloaded wheel-barrow? Will the Japanese, who, according to latest reports, are still busily leasing land on ten-year tenures, give back any more than the skin of the orange? The little men from Nippon seem to be saying good-bye to Shantung, but we'd rather like to know whether they mean "Adieu" or "Au revoir."

Preventative Medicine.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

SEEKS TO OPEN SIBERIAN TRADE TO THE OUTSIDE

Negotiations with bankers and business firms in Shanghai in an effort to hasten commercial and financial communications with the outside world have been entered into here by Mr. B. M. Berlatsky, chairman of the board of directors of the Bank of the Far Eastern Republic, according to information received by The Shanghai Life, local Russian paper.

During his stay here Mr. Berlatsky, who left for Peking last Sunday, visited and was visited by representatives of several of the biggest local banking institutions. The principal question discussed was the possibility of coming to an understanding whereby the Bank of the Far Eastern Republic might be represented by and have a working agreement with a strong outside institution. Representatives of local commercial firms, both foreign and Chinese, also were in consultation with the visiting banker, as were also officials of certain of the Chambers of Commerce, it is reported.

The conferences are understood to have been attended by the representative of "Sibnevshtorg"—the Siberian Commissariat for Foreign Trade, Mr. A. G. Distler. As a result of the conferences, it is understood, certain firms have come to the decision to send representatives to Siberia to investigate trade conditions at first hand, to inquire into the possibilities of obtaining concessions and of supplying mining and railway materials.

Mr. Berlatsky, it is stated, will spend a few days in Peking and will then proceed to Chita to report to the bank's board of directors and to the Ministries interested in his trip here.

SHIP'S OFFICER MISSING HERE SINCE SUNDAY

The disappearance has been reported of Mr. A. G. McKinnon, first mate of the China Navigation Company's steamer Chusan, who has not been seen since Sunday evening.

The missing man is not known to have any friends in Shanghai, this being his first trip here since leaving the Bangkok-Hongkong run and the fact that he was wearing a smoking jacket when he went ashore has given rise to the belief that he has been the victim either of foul play or an accident.

TWO FIRES YESTERDAY

Two Chinese dwellings located near Sung Pan and Yangtszepoo Roads were almost destroyed early yesterday evening in a blaze that damaged a third dwelling before the efforts of the Yangtszepoo Division of the Fire Department succeeded. Another fire call at noon yesterday took the Hongkew Division to P P 650 Tong Dong Ka Loong, where a child had upset a lamp and ignited some bedding which was quickly extinguished.

HOMESIDE FRUITS FOR TABLES HERE VIA PACIFIC MAIL

Regular shipments of California fruit and vegetables are to be brought to Shanghai for the benefit of local housewives by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, according to announcement made yesterday by Mr. B. C. Haile, Traffic Manager.

The first of the consignments will arrive late tomorrow by the steamer Golden State, which arrives twenty days after leaving the Golden Gate. She brings for residents here 375 heads of lettuce to inaugurate the company's new scheme to promote the importation of Pacific Coast vegetables and fruit and the Pacific Mail offices are making arrangements to deliver the produce immediately the steamer docks. The lettuce, it is announced, will be delivered practically at cost, about 45 cents per head, which includes duty and freight.

"As a fast and regular service from San Francisco is now established, the Pacific Mail will bring to Shanghai lettuce, celery, peaches, apricots, grapes, plums, artichokes, asparagus and other California produce if the demand warrants it," Mr. Haile said yesterday.

TO PREVENT RHEUMATISM

When the general health is broken down, if conditions are favorable for the disease, rheumatism is very liable to develop. Without these conditions of low vitality and weakened resistance nature will protect the body against disease.

In the development of rheumatism a marked feature is the thinning of the blood caused by the breaking down of the blood cells.

The best treatment for rheumatism is rest and what doctors call a "supporting treatment," that is, to restore and retain a high level of general health. Then nature corrects the disease.

With these facts in view it is easily seen how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills prevent and relieve rheumatism. They tone up general health. Taken after rheumatism has developed they begin at once to rebuild the blood, to restore its broken-down cells, and that is to directly combat the disease. External applications are never effective in the treatment of rheumatism because the disease is in the blood and must be fought there.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale people are sold by all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai at $1.50 per bottle. $8-for 6 bottles, post free

FILIPINOS HAVE FAITH IN WOOD, SAYS DR. TAYLOR

Eminent American Social Service Worker Here Following Visit In South

Following visits to the Philippines, Hongkong and Canton, Dr. Graham Taylor, founder and head of Chicago Commons social center and one of the best known social service workers in the United States, is at present a visitor in Shanghai.

During his stay in the Philippines Dr. Taylor, who for eighteen years has been an editorial contributor to the Chicago Daily News—writing a weekly article on labor, political or social service topics—made a close study of present political conditions in the Islands, and on his arrival in Hongkong and Canton looked into the facts concerning the recent seamen's strike. The latter occurrence struck him as one of the most significant labor demonstrations in recent years.

STRIKE SIGNIFICANT

"The shipping strike," Dr. Taylor said yesterday, "is one of the outstanding labor movements in many years. It is a remarkable thing for Chinese to organise and strike in such a manner, and to my mind marks the beginning of the end of the cheapest and lowest standard labor in the world."

The Philippines according to Dr. Taylor are in the midst of a very critical period.

"It is a very tense situation," Dr. Taylor said, "but all the Filipino leaders unite in emphasising their emphatic confidence in Governor-General Wood. General Wood, happily, has surrounded himself with a fine number of American administrators, and will most surely lead the islands back to a normal basis.

"The split in the political parties is of course very interesting. I talked with Osmena and Quezon and neither had any nice things to say about the other. Osmena likes the bank patronage and the failure of the bank as a business situation was harped on by Quezon. Quezon has the railroad patronage and when General Wood recently discovered that 1,000 passes had been issued on the railroad Osmena lamented the terrible railroad situation.

WOOD ORDERS REFORMS

"And recently General Wood paid a surprise visit to the Cullon leper colony and found things in a horrible condition. He immediately sent telegrams to Manila calling for food, clothing, medical supplies —everything was needed and needed badly. More inefficiency.

"In a talk with Quezon, who has formed the Collectivista party I remarked that he had picked a very poor name for his new party as it would be greatly misunderstood abroad. He wanted to know why, and I told him that it sounded socialistic or communistic. He explained then that, of course, it merely meant the party was to be governed by the collective ideas of the leaders instead of being a one-man party and admitted that the name should be changed to, perhaps, Liberal party.

"The most sincere friends of the Filipinos counsel caution in the independence question, and even many of the leaders—not Osmena or Quezon—do not really expect immediate independence. They say, however, that the only way they will achieve ultimate independence is by making a hue and cry now and demanding it."

Dr. Taylor, who is accompanied by Mrs. Taylor, is stopping at the Kalee. They are leaving Shanghai Monday night for up-river and will return to Shanghai for the All China Christian Conference, going then to Peking and Mukden en route to Japan.

Dr. Taylor is contributing articles to the Chicago Daily News while on his trip and in order that the continuity of his Saturday editorials may not be broken has been requested to cable or wireless his usual column from whatever point he may be visiting.

Five Diphtheria Cases Reported

Five cases of diphtheria in the foreign community of the International Settlement and the deaths of three Chinese from the disease were reported to the health authorities in the week ending April 9. In the same period five cases of scarlet fever in the foreign community and seven deaths of Chinese from scarlet fever were reported.

It is thought that the recent light epidemic of measles has been checked. No cases among foreigners were reported in the week ending April 9 though in that period the deaths of 17 Chinese from measles occurred.

"Began to think she would never get well."

Our Portrait is of Miss FLORRIE ORGAN, of 100, Clark Street, Ladywood, Birmingham, England, whose father writes:

"My daughter Florrie was suffering with a very bad head covered with Sores and Eruptions, and in fact her mother was afraid to comb her hair. She had been under several doctors, but all to no purpose, so I began to think she would never get well again and lose all her hair. As your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' cured me of Glandular Swellings in the Neck some years ago, and so averted my having to undergo an operation, I decided to give 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' a fair trial in the case of my daughter, and I am pleased to say it effected a wonderful cure in just over a fortnight."

SUFFERERS from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realise that lotions and ointments can but give temporary relief; to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter the root cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes and expels the impurities; that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from injurious ingredients.

Interport Hockey Eleven Leaves Today For Tientsin

Best Local Players Hopeful Of Beating Tientsin And North China

Shanghai's best hockey talent leaves for Tientsin from the North Station at 9:30 o'clock this morning for interport matches with a Tientsin city team and an eleven composed of the best of Tientsin and Peking, playing as The North China Team. The games will be the severest engaged in this season by Shanghai hockeyists, but with a wise selection of the foremost local players, and a fair course of teamwork drilling local fans are hopeful, or confident of success.

The selected team took its final workout yesterday evening on the Polo Field. There was no opposition, the practice being confined to tries at various plays both offensive and defensive. The men however did not permit the play to become too close in fear of sustaining injury just before entraining. The team appeared on the field in the new all-white colors with the new interport badge, and light soled shoes to give greater speed to the play. After the trial there was a general feeling of confidence manifest that Shanghai had gotten together its best team, and had prepared it for a stiff series of games.

Tegetmeier, one of the local selections, who already is in the North, however, reports that the Northern teams are strong, fast and hard to beat. They have been playing on a hard mud field which makes for play far faster than can be attained on the turf fields in Shanghai, so that the local men at first might find the ball travelling faster than they are accustomed to. Yet with a little workout on the fast grounds in Tientsin Shanghai hopes to play up to the fast field and meet the home teams on fairly even terms.

Shanghai plays Tientsin Saturday, and the North China Team on Monday, perhaps in the morning, returning to Shanghai leaving Tientsin Tuesday morning.

SAYS 'BUGS' Baer:

FOWLER NEVER MISSED A BLOW

When He Swung Something Had To Fall To Keep Gink Company

BY "BUGS" BAER

Stop, look and listen:

There comes a time in the affairs of men, which, if taken at its flood, leads on to a good wetting. This cuckoo food Gink keep himself in black eyes.

I had a protege who was raised with wolves, chummed with disaster and collected panics.

He swamped Gink Fowler in a fifty-round fight in Roughtown about eighty years ago as the crow flies. Gink got a smack on the jaw that laid him like a carpet. Then my man tacked him down with his feet.

Yours forever and a daze,
BLINK MICHEL.

You must know that Gink never associated with anybody like Blink Mitchel, who thinks that his neck is a napkin holder.

He never fought this anonymous champion of Blink's. It was Gink's motto that no news is good news. Which naturally made the Roughtown Gazette a good newspaper.

Gink always had his name on the society page and his picture in the Lost and Found department.

Once Gink fought The Glutt and knocked him so far out of the ring that the ticket grabber thought The Glutt was trying to egg his way in.

It took some explaining from Gink's friends to include the ticket spearer to let go of The Glutt ears so that The Glutt could climb back into the ring and resume his beating.

They fought on and on for two or three hundred rounds without either man getting close enough to telephone. They always fought with a traffic cop for a referee.

Gink was west bound traffic while The Glutt was north. During a lull in the stalling, The Glutt crossed Gink with a right jaw to the knuckles. Gink proceeded to swallow his family pride and his false teeth.

Military rank got no precedence after that. From almost nothing the carnival grew up to a full-fledged riot with Gink banging away at the gate receipts with both hands.

If The Glutt had worn a red necktie he would have looked like a Christmas package. He was easier to take than a book out of the free library.

He didn't belong in the ring with Gink.

Nobody belonged in the same ring with Gink. Not even himself.

Jack sailed for Europe on the Aquitania today. As he waved farewell to the crowds who saw him off, the heavyweight champion held up a bundle of pamphlets which were various remedies for seasickness.

WINDING UP OF PEKING FIRM IS ASKED FOR HERE

Petition Affecting Fenton And Co. Is Transferred To Tientsin

An order for the winding up of the business of Messrs. John Fenton and Company, Ltd., of Peking, was applied for yesterday morning before Judge Peter Grain of the British Supreme Court by Mr. A. C. Holborow.

Judge Grain, in compliance with the request of Mr. Holborow, adjourned the application, to enable the hearing to be held in Tientsin. The Judge announced that he would be in Tientsin to hear criminal cases on April 25. He expects to be back about the end of the month.

Messrs. John Fenton and Co., Ltd. was incorporated in April, 1921 under the Companies Ordinance Act Hongkong with head offices in Peking. It was capitalised at Peking $45,000, divided into 450 shares of $1,000 each, and the whole of the capital had been paid up. The Company had been acting as agents for insurance companies in soliciting and receiving premia and applications for life, marine, fire and other insurance.

The China Mutual Life Insurance Company is a creditor for $11,077.75, insurance premia received by Messrs. John Fenton and Co., to be paid to the China Mutual Life Insurance Company, according to the petition which adds that although applications for payment of this amount were made on the firm no payment was made. The petition says "The Company is unable to pay its debts. In the circumstances it is just and equitable that the Company should be wound up."

The original application was in the name the China Mutual Life Insurance Company but Mr. Holborow said that he had received notice from the Shanghai Life Insurance Company and the South British Insurance Company of their intention to support the petition. Since the petition was filed he had also received a letter from Mr. R. T. Evans, an American lawyer acting on behalf of Messrs. John Fenton and Co., stating that he had received instructions from the Company to oppose the petition, and requesting that the Court be asked to transfer the case to Tientsin

An adjourment was granted to transfer the petition to Tientsin.

CHINESE APPEAL FOR EQUALISED TRADE CHANCES

(Chung Mei Service).

Peking April 9.—Dissatisfaction with conditions of trade is expressed in petitions to the Cabinet from two different sources—one from the Chefoo Chamber of Commerce the other from the President of the Huinchang Agricultural Association. Both petitions protest against disadvantageous trade conditions under which Chinese compete with other nationals, and an amelioration is in both cases requested in the interest of Chinese commerce and labor.

Mr. Men, head of the Agricultural Association at Huinchang, in his plea to the Cabinet, draws attention to the unequal adjustment of trade existing between Chinese and foreign merchants. The main fault seems to lie in the matter of taxes, for the Chinese pay taxes which foreign merchants do not. For instance. Chinese cereal merchants must meet a sale tax on cereals sold, then pay an export tax at the customs house and also at the Chinese tax collecting bureau, whereas foreigners pay only an export tax at the customs.

The Chefoo petition deals with laborers who desire to work in Vladivostok, but are held back on account of innumerable fees which leave the native workman penniless. A laboror who intends to find work in Vladivostok must meet the following expenses before he is allowed to set sail: $2.00 for a certificate, $2.00 for stamp charges, and seventy cents for photo charges.

On top of all this, additional fees have been imposed, by putting an extra $2.00 on each item, which makes a trip to Vladivostok practically impossible for a laborer of the poorer class. The extras were imposed after the formation of the Immigration Bureau, according to the petition, and result in many idle workmen roaming about the port.

The Ferment In Japan

BY ORRIN KEITH

JAPAN has come far on the road toward liberalism in the last two years. There is as yet none too much evidence of it on the surface of things. The old gods still sit in the temples. The old bureaucracy still runs the country; at least all the country except the military, who still do about as they please. Talk with Japanese officialdom and Japanese officialdom assures you that things are running on just as smoothly as ever: that there are no particular problems before the country: that the death of Marshal Prince Yamagata will make no difference in the political world: in fact, that things could hardly be more stable or more exactly as Japanese officialdom would have them.

The very insistence of Japanese officialdom on the absolute rightness of everything that is, serves to arouse a bit of suspicion. It is too labored, too concerted. And the suspicion is confirmed the moment one begins to talk with intelligent Japanese outside official circles. Here is a different story. Here there is evident a state of unrest, a state even of expectancy, which was entirely absent two years ago. Here they know that things are not running smoothly: here they know that things are far from stable: here there is the conviction that the country is on the verge of an economic and political crisis of the first magnitude.

There are many evidences of this atmosphere of unrest, of expectancy. Not the least was the recent farce-tragedy which was played about the universal suffrage bill. It was a foregone conclusion that the bill would be defeated. The Seiyukai had shown no disposition whatever to take any steps which might directly or indirectly tend to jeopardise their stranglehold upon the political machinery. The sincere advocacy of the bill was confined entirely to the two parties which, even together, constitute a hopeless minority in the Imperial Diet. In spite of the hopelessness of the situation, however, workers in the cause of universal suffrage had come to Tokio from all parts of the country to be present when the vote was taken.

As the day set for the ballot approached, they gathered in the neighborhood of the Diet Building to watch the progress of their measure. There was no rioting, no violence, not even voices raised above the tone of conversation. Yet Japanese officialdom trembled. Gendarmes and troops in large numbers were sent to keep the crowds under control. On the day of the ballot, the neighborhood of the Diet was like an armed encampment. Police were posted around the building so close together that they could almost touch each other. Soldiers in great numbers, the papers report as many as 7,000, were stationed at strategic points in the vicinity. And this great military demonstration managed to keep in awe about 3,000 unarmed and unaggressive citizens who asked the right to share in the government of their country. Behind this ample line of defense, the supposed representatives of those people refused, by a large majority, to give them that right.

There were some brushes with the police. A number of the demonstrators were severely beaten by the officers. Many were arrested. But the movement was finally reduced to the humble presentation of a petition by the citizens, which the august assembly simply ignored. The whole affair was of the kind which, in any other country of the standing which Japan likes to give herself, would have been handled by a few score policemen as a part of the day's work.

But in Japan it was significant of the change which is coming over the country with increasing rapidity. It was additional evidence that the government of the country is based upon the force at its disposal and not upon the will of the Japanese people.

In a day when the principles of democracy are the daily prattle of school-children, the Japanese government finds itself distinctly on the defensive. It has been fighting for a long time the rise of "dangerous thoughts," this term being a vague thrust in the direction of Bolshevism but in practise applying to all thoughts which are deemed "dangerous" to those in power. And now the bureaucracy, like King Canute, finds the tide ignoring its behest and obeying laws of far higher sanction. Japanese officialdom finds itself surrounded by a rising tide in which it is difficult to distinguish anything but "dangerous thoughts."

In the face of disaster, officialdom hesitates and wavers. Some are for resisting the flood to the last: others would meet it halfway in the hope of turning it to their own advantage. An amusing illustration of the workings of the official mind occurred in connection with the arrival at Yokohama of Margaret Sanger, the advocate of birth-control.

Two years ago one of the Japanese dailies published a story to the effect that a certain Japanese professor was receiving $2,000 a month from America to spread the doctrine of birth-control in Japan. It is not probable that the publishers believed the story but it was during one of those times when the Japanese press with suggestive unanimity turns its whole energy to belaboring Japan's neighbor across the Pacific. And the birth-control story was considered one of the worst things that could be said against that neighbor. It furnished the theme for innumerable editorials anent the heaven-born mision of the great Yamato race and the criminality of any attempt to limit in the slightest degree its numerical increase.

That was two years ago. Now there is in Japan a growing feeling among those who think for themselves, that birth-control perhaps offers a much saner solution for the problem of Japan's growing congestion than the policy of an unlimited increase of population and the seizure of someone's else territory to support it. This of course is a "dangerous thought," for does it not cut the ground entirely away from the argument of the "necessity for expansion to accommodate Japan's excess of numbers?" The advocates of the limitation of numbers have been allowed little opportunity, therefore, to disseminate their doctrine among the people.

Into this troubled arena of Japanese pros and cons comes a little woman from New York who believes that a woman should have the right to say when she shall undertake the dangers and the responsibilities of child-birth. The Japanese Consul in San Francisco refuses to vise the passport of this little woman who threatens the whole power of the Imperial Government. But she comes anyway and the Japanese authorities have a spasm. It is announced that she will not be allowed to land. "Who is she?" ask the people. It is announced that she will be allowed to land but not to speak. "What does she speak about?" ask the people. It is announced that she will be allowed to speak to audiences of not more than one hundred persons. "What is it that is so interesting that a few must hear?" ask the people.

And the people have been doing more than ask. They have been getting answers to their questions. Books on population and birth-control have jumped to the head of the list at the libraries. The newspapers are full of the discussion of the question. Every new announcement of the authorities is met by a flood of editorial comment. The doctrine of birth-control in all its phases has been spread to the uttermost corners of the Empire. Bureaucracy makes a last effort. It decides that Mrs. Sanger may land but that she shall not be allowed to speak. Mrs. Sanger quietly thanks the Imperial Japanese Government both for allowing her to land and for making it entirely unnecessary for her to speak. It has already carried her message far beyond the range of her feeble voice.

Universal suffrage and birth-control are for the Japanese largely theoretical questions, "sentimental questions" they call them. They do not affect the immediate welfare of the individual. But there is in Japan a condition which does very greatly affect the welfare of the individual. Economically Japan is in serious straits. She is the only country which has not liquidated since the war. She is still trying to do business on wartime prices. The scale of prices in Tokio is not only comparatively as high as in New York and London but for many things it is actually higher. Japanese manufacturers see the merchants of other countries go elsewhere to buy. Japanese hotel managers see the travelling public pass Japan with as brief a stay as possible. The country is gradually excluding itself from the world's trade because it insists on preserving the artificial prices of war days.

The reason for this is not far to seek. The Japanese government is largely dependent for support upon big business and the farmers. The Japanese suffrage belongs only to the wealthy twenty-five percent of the population. These are the men who have benefited by wartime speculation and who would lose most in a general liquidation. Therefore, the Imperial Government, instead of devoting its energy to getting Japan onto a new and workable level of prices as soon as possible, has been exerting itself to the utmost to keep prices up for its clients, the merchants and the farmers.

Meanwhile industrial Japan suffers and tries against fearful odds to keep pace with the rising cost of living. In any other country such a condition would lead rather rapidly to revolution. In Japan not so fast. Socialists and socialist teachings have been severely repressed as long as possible. The masses of the Japanese people have not yet fully appreciated the connection between politics and economics. They have but a slight conception of the political method of dealing with economic problems. But the idea is growing. Today the most popular books in Japan are books on socialism. The most popular writers are those whose stories carry a socialistic message. In spite of the efforts of the Japanese Canutes, perhaps partly because of them, the tide of socialistic philosophy is rising.

And when a sufficient number of the Japanese workers learn the connection between universal suffrage and the high cost of living, then there will be more than a passive demonstration outside the Diet building when the "representatives of the people" refuse to give the workers the vote. When that time comes one of two things must happen: the government must give in, or it must shoot down the people in the streets. One is the English way: the other was the Russian. One is bloodless evolution: the other is followed fast by bloody revolution.

The word "revolution" is frequently heard now in talking with Japanese. It is not merely referred to, as it was a few years back, for the purpose of stating that a revolution in Japan is an impossibility. Quite different now. The most common statement now is "Unless the government mends its ways, there will be a revolution."

A man is as presumptuous to indulge in political prophecy in regard to Japan as he is in regard to China, but one may predict with some certainty that there is either going to be some very rapid political evolution in Japan during the next decade or something more striking is going to happen. In this prediction he would find himself seconded by the large majority of political observers in the country itself. The feeling is very general among those who are neither attached to the bureaucracy nor numbered with the "proletariat." It is this conviction that gives rise to the state of expectancy of which one is very conscious in the country. The death of Yamagata, far from being without significance, as the bureaucrats would have us believe, has served to enhance the feeling that something is about to happen. Yamagata was the head and front of reaction in Japan. With him alive and leading the fight against liberalism, there seemed little hope for the attainment of any concrete results. With the great reactionary out of the way, both the bureaucracy and the forces of progress feel that now is the time for action.

GOOD FRIDAY OBSERVANCES

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS,

Dear Sir: In looking over your very beautiful Easter edition, I observed very many advertisements of Easter festivities but very few announcements of the observance of Good Friday.

Regardless of creed, Good Friday is observed by all Christian nations and it is fitting that only such business activity as is absolutely essential to the welfare of a community be indulged in.

While no law can be invoked forcing the proper observance of Good Friday by those unnecessary business concerns that cater only to the pleasure loving public, these same places should fall into the ways of Christian business concerns and close their dance halls, their cabarets and their bars from midnight Thursday to the same hour Friday.

No, I'm not a reformer but like the rest of world I believe that a good man was murdered on Good Friday 1922 years ago and that due respect should be shown His memory. Respectfully Yours,

P. C.

April 11, 1922.

The Great Coal Strike

What The Miners Want—History Of Previous Strikes—The "Check-Off" System—The Leader Of The Strikers

Great coal strikes, such as the United States is now experiencing, have been few in the history of American mining, although for seventy-five years the coal industry has been marked by almost numberless state-wide and localised coal strikes, often involving thousands of workers. All of the big strikes have continued more than one month, the longest having been that of 1902 in the anthracite industry. It lasted twenty-three weeks.

The big strikes—five in number—are summaried as follows:

1894—First general strike in the soft coal industry, called by the United Mine Workers of America, the purpose being to restore wage scales that had been decreased during the panic of '93; 100,000 to 160,000 men engaged and militia called out in four states; first attempt at a compromise failed, but second conference of miners and operators ended with adoption of a scale agreement.

1897—July 4 walkout of 150,000 miners, called by D. M. Ratchford, president of the U. M. W. of A. to deplete an overstocked coal market, which union officials feared would result in wage reductions on account of the slow coal trade; strike was called off after 12 weeks' duration, at the end of which the market had been depleted; first great successful strike of the U. M. W. of A

1900—Anthracite strike in September and October, engaged 132,000 and ended with miners getting 10 to 16 percent increases in wages.

THE BIG STRIKE

1902—Great anthracite strike, led by the late John Mitchell, as president of the U. M. W. of A. lasted 23 weeks, May to October; 140,000 men engaged, and finally called off when President Roosevelt appointed a commission that afterward gave the miners a 10 percent wage advance, and made their contract for three years, ending April 1, 1906.

1919—Nation-wide soft coal strike in November and December of 395,000 miners called off by union in compliance with a court injunction, obtained by Attorney General Palmer under the wartime Lever fuel control law; commission later appointed by President Wilson gave miners an increase of approximately 27 percent in wages—their largest single increase.

Unlike the last great strike, the present one began with warm weather approaching. The 1919 shut-down came with winter. Stocks now are more ample than then, but the present situation is much like the Fourth of July walkout of 1897. Out of the strikes, both large and small, the workers as a general proposition have won many benefits in increased wages and improved working conditions. But victory has not always been theirs, though the big strike settlements have favored them. The operator successes, however, include wage reductions, denial of increased wages, changed working conditions, and the crushing of two unions—the first national organisation of miners, founded in 1860, which perished in a series of strikes at the close of the civil war, and the Workmen's Benevolent Association, an organisation of anthracite workers, which was demoralised in 1875 after 15 years' existence.

FIRST COAL STRIKE

The first coal strike in the United States occurred in 1849 in the Pennsylvania anthracite field when a British miner, named Bates, organised a local union and sought to increase wages and better working conditions. His strike failed and Bates was forced to leave the field and for eleven years the workers made no further attempt at organisation.

Since Bates' day, many leaders have been developed among the workers and strikes of various sorts for varied purposes have been carried on, the early fight being largely centered to small areas, occasionally including an entire state coal field.

WHAT THE MINERS WANT

What are the coal miners asking for in new wage contracts with the operators?

Briefly, the anthracite miners want increased wages, the bituminous miners want to retain present basic scales, and the operators in both fields want wage proposals. While both sides include various other demands in their wage proposals, the main issue is wages. In brief, the miners' demands are as follows:

Bituminous.—Removal of differentials within and between districts so as to result in increased wages for some workers and reduction for none; establishment of the 6-hour-day, 5-day-week, pay and one-half for overtime work, and double pay for Sunday and holiday work; weekly paydays; a wage contract for two years, ending March 31, 1924.

Anthracite.—20 percent increase of wages for tonnage workers, and $1 a day advance for day laborers; abolition of sub-contracting through individual agreements; establishment of the "check-off" system of collecting union dues by operators withholding sum from miners' wages; uniformity of wages for similar occupations; extension of the eight-hour day to include all workers; a uniform "consideration" day wage for miners whose wage is reduced by abnormal working conditions; increased pay for overtime work; contract for two years, ending March 31, 1924.

THE "CHECK OFF"

One of the peculiar practices of the soft coal industry is the "check off" system, a collecting agency for union dues. To a large extent, it is the financial backbone of the United Mine Workers of America. The operators also use it for collecting money due them from their workmen.

In brief, the "check-off" results in a part of a miner's wages being withheld for a specified payment—his dues, in case of the union, and various expenditures, made in his behalf by his employer, in case of the operator.

The origin of the "check-off" is unknown. Some operators have declared that any settlement must provide for its discard, and the union a few months ago threatened a nation-wide strike in its defense. However, it has been recognized method of collecting union dues for 25 years, and practiced longer than that time by the operators for their own benefit.

The federal circuit court of appeals at Chicago recently ruled that as far as existing contracts disclose "the check-off is the voluntary assignment by the employe of so much of his wages as may be necessary to meet his union dues and his direction to his employer to pay the amount of the treasurer of his union; in that aspect the contract provision is legal, and quite evidently there are many lawful purposes for which dues may be used."

An attack on the "check-off"—the union's part of it—is made in an indictment, pending in the court charging operators and miners in the Central Competitive Field with conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law. Incidental to the main charge that the operators and miners combined to control production and prices, the indictment referred to the "check-off" as indicating a close relation between the two, and declaring the purpose, as "well known and understood," was to provide funds for the union's alleged efforts to stop coal production at non union mines. Action in the case has been at a standstill for months. Opponents of the "check-off" also assert that it is reflected in the price of coal.

THE DEFENSE

In defense of the "check-off," union officials interpret it as a "convenient method, mutually agreed between employer and employe, for collecting dues." President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America, adds that opponents "set up the 'check-off' as a straw man for the basis of other propaganda."

"The 'check-off' is not the creation of the union," says Mr. Lewis. It was founded years ago by the operators, and is still practiced by them. Company rent, supplies, tools, and a long, long list of charges—some almost unique—are found in the operators' 'check-off,' and down at the end of the list appears this monthly item: 'United Mine Workers of America dues, 75 cents.'

"The importance to the union of the 'check-off' is convenience."

Where the "check-off" for the union first started is not known. The operators it seems practiced it for themselves, and when they got to bargaining with the union, tradition is that the miners said "now you have checked-off everything else, just check-off our dues."

Before this, the tradition is that the local unions had committees to stand at the mouth of the mine on the day when dues were to be paid, and if a miner refused payment, the committee sent him home. This practice is said often interfered with mine operations by reducing the needed labor supply, and increased the willingness of operators to adopt the "check-off" for the union.

The "check-off" became a part of the interestate wage agreement made for the Central Competitive Field in 1898, and not only has been renewed by subsequent agreements but also has been pushed into other fields until now two-thirds of the half-million union miners settle dues by the "check-off." However, the "check-off" is not universal throughout the coal industry. It is used in the partly unionised soft coal fields, and also is missing in the Pennsylvania anthracite fields.

THE STRIKE LEADER

As the leader in the nation-wide coal strike, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, has entered his fourth big industrial conflict. He leads labor's largest strike army in the history of the United States for the strike involves more than 500,000 workers scattered throughout the United States.

Conflicts between employers and workers, in which Mr. Lewis has stood out prominently, are these:

The 1919 soft coal strike of 395,000 miners, which was broken by the government, after which the miners got a 24-cent a ton increase in the wages, their largest single pay advance.

The first attempt, made in 1913-14, to unionise the steel industry, Mr. Lewis having charge of the field workers of the American Federation of Labor; the movement failed, according to union men because of widespread unemployment.

The great copper strike in Upper Michigan during 1913, in which Mr. Lewis, as general field agent of the American Federation of Labor, assisted in the general conduct of the strike.

Strike troubles, however, have been only a small part of Mr. Lewis' work within the organised labor movement. In 1910 at the age of thirty he was elected a representative of the Illinois union miners, and in October, 1911, he became general field agent of the American Federation of Labor, resigning in February, 1917, to become statistician of the United Mine Workers of America. On Oct. 25, 1917, he was elected vice-president of the United Mine Workers, and on Feb. 6, 1920 became president, having for a short time previously been the union's acting president.

Since 1916, Mr. Lewis has participated in all interstate conferences between miners and operators in the adjustment of question affecting the mining industry, and since 1917 he has had full charge of the administrative and field forces of the union in extending the organisation into many non-union fields. In 1910-11, he was a member of the commission, composed of miners, operators and public men, which was created by the Illinois general assembly to revise mining laws, and in 1916 he declined an appointment from Governor Lowden as director of the Illinois department of labor. During the world war, he was a member of National Committee on Coal Production, and later co-operated with the National Fuel Administration on problems affecting coal productions and distribution. In the first year of President Harding's administration, Mr. Lewis served on the commission that correlated the work of various government bureaus dealing with the welfare of ex-service men, and also on the commission that laid the foundation for the recent unemployment conference.

In brief, Mr. Lewis' life story is one of a miner's son, born in an Iowa hamlet, who has become the leader of one of the most powerful labor organisations in the world. He was born Feb. 12, 1880, at Lucas, Iowa, and after attending the public schools entered the mines to work with his father. Later, he supplemented his public school education with courses of reading and study in specialised subjects, particularly economics. In his twenties, he traveled extensively through west and southwest states, engaging in coal and metalliferous mining. He is married and has two children: a son, age nine, and a daughter, age two.

As president of the mine workers' union, Mr. Lewis has for months past been in disagreement with Alexander Howat, who he deposed as president of the Kansas district union, and Frank Farrington, the Illinois district president, who has championed Howat's side. In these controversies, Mr. Lewis' policies have won approval whenever brought before the union's conventions.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. FERLEE, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARDEE, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a safe and reliable medicine for infants and children, in fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Hughes Supports Denby On Navy

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, April 11.—Mr. Hughes, writing to a member of the House of Representatives, declared that the reduction of the Naval personnel to 67,000, proposed in the Naval Bill as reported on by the Committee of the House of Representatives, would reduce the American Navy below the ratio established by the Armament Conference, and would prove most injurious to America.

IODISED THROAT TABLETS
Allay all irritation

THE General Public is hereby notified that supplies of "IXL" IODISED THROAT TABLETS, the remarkable new throat remedy that is now being so largely and successfully prescribed by physicians in Great Britain, are now being made available for residents in China.

Representing the latest advance in scientific throat medication, these tablets, by reason of their Iodine content, are indubitably superior to any other pastilles or tablets that have yet been evolved by scientific research.

Their use is positively indicated in all cases of Sore and Ulcerated Throat, Hoarseness, Quinsy, Throat Catarrh, Tonsilitis, Laryngitis, etc.

As a highly efficient throat disinfectant when epidemics are rife, IODISED THROAT TABLETS indoubtedly excel any other preparation yet put upon the market.

No malignant Diptheria, Influenza, or other germ can find lodgement on a membranous surface that has been subjected to the peculiar antiseptic influences of these tablets.

Pleasant to the palate, and allaying all irritation, each tablet, as it slowly dissolves in the mouth, releases, in harmonious combination with other fine quality medicaments, a specific quantity of the pure Tincture of Iodine, to soothe, heal, and sterilize the inflamed area.

WARNING:—All cartons of the genuine and original IODISED THROAT TABLETS bear the "IXL" trade-mark, and each tablet is embossed with the letter "A." Reject feeble substitutes.

All first-class chemists supply "IXL" IODISED THROAT TABLETS.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

April 12, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were unchanged in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 65⅝ cents, and the London-New York cross rate to 441¼.

The only changes in the official quotations here today were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 71¾ and in the Yen rate to 66.

Our market here today was steady, particularly in the early part of the morning when there were good sellers of Sterling at 3-3⅜ for any delivery until June and of Gold dollars at 73¼ for April-May and 73⅛ June.

Just before the close rates eased off slightly, there being buyers rather than sellers at these rates.

However, there were good sellers at a fraction below these quotations.

Nothing of importance transpired in the London silver market yesterday.
